

Friday, January 09, 2004

Saturday, 13 January 2007

Friday, January 09, 2004

New Song: Pages of My Life

Well....thought

I would continue with the story of Delta and me waking up in the hospital. If you scroll down...you'll catch the other parts of this story under other such titles "New Song: bla bla bla..etc"

You get it.

-----

Well...when

I woke up in the hospital they were bringing me from getting a CAT scan. They began asking me a series of questions such as: have you ever been in a car accident?...had any head injuries...etc. And...all of my answers were no.

Well...as it would turn out...I had a growth...tumor...next to my brain. Between the back of your brain and the back of your skull is a space 2 inches thick...and it go's from ear2ear ...my this thing had engulfed this entire space. DA HELL!!!

Well....they wanted to do surgery...and other things...but I decided to come back 2 Chicago and talk 2 my doctors. Delta was by my side the entire way. She was making sure I was eating right...calling my family and giving them updates. And...for the most part...just be the wonderful person she was.

Around spring break we were getting 2 go home 2 Chicago so I could seek medical attention when all hell broke loose!

posted by SvnX @ 2:56 PM